

BERGER PAINTS INDIA FEATURED IN FORBES INDIA & SUPER 50 COMPANIES - 2016

Berger Paints India has been featured in Forbes India's list of Super 50 Companies for the second year in a row. Holding its place as the second largest paints company in India, Berger has shown growth in all the key evaluating factors, like shareholder value, sales growth and return on equity.

Berger Paints India is continuously innovating on solutions to make painting faster, efficient and hassle-free with the use of cutting-edge technology and intuitive tools and services. With a 3-year average shareholder return of 157%, 3-year compounded annual sales growth rate of 11% and a 24% 3-year return on equity, Berger Paints India stays consistent in the paints manufacturing sector.

Why Super 50? As quoted by Forbes India – "The Dhingra brothers have successfully taken Berger Paints to the number two spot among Indian paint companies. Investing in decorative paints, the supply chain and an information technology infrastructure has allowed the company to forecast demand more precisely. Its stock price has compounded 40% in the last five years."

Forbes India, for the second year in a row, with knowledge support from PwC India, adopted a robust multiple-stage process to select India's Super 50 Companies. The result is a strong list of companies that comprise Forbes India's Super 50 listing. Forbes India is the Indian edition of Forbes, which is a highly celebrated and respected American business magazine.

Read more:

<http://forbesindia.com/article/super-50-companies-2016/how-the-super-50-companies-achieve-greatness/43879/1>

<http://forbesindia.com/lists/super-50-companies-2016/1551/all>